Notes for Timothy Andrews

Timothy died at age 63 years, eleven months. The following is from "The Old Cellars of Essex" by Harold Jenkins: "The next cellar we visit is the one where Captain Rufus Low lived, which is situated about five rods south of the house of Mr. Orin Sampson. This was also an old lean-to roofed house. Mr. Low was what was termed in those days a deep sea captain, going on long voyages, and was a great navigator. After Captain Lowe this place was owned by Mr. Timothy Andrews, who married Mr. Lowe's daughter. His descendants are James P. and Timothy of Essex, and Moses L., the well known spar maker of Gloucester." The 1850 census for Essex, Essex County, Massachusetts shows Timothy Andrews age 46, mariner with wife Mary age 46 and children: John age 6; Levi age 5; George A. age 2; also [brother] James Andrews age 22. The 1860 census for Essex, Essex County, Massachusetts shows Timothy age 55, day laborer and wife Mary age 56 with children: John age 16; Levi age 14; George age 12.

Notes for Myron Locke

The E. M. Andrews manuscript has the following letter written to Mrs. Mathila Abell of Vashon, Washington from her grandfather, Myron Locke, dated 21 Sept 1891. "Myron Locke was born in Litchfield, Herkimer County, N. Y., Oct. 8, 1815, and in 1822 at the age of seven years came with his father, Josiah Locke, to Covington, then to Genesee County; and in June 23, 1833, was married to Eunice Andrews of Bethany [sic], N. Y., with whom he lived for 51 years, and there was born to them 10 children, 6 sons [2 sons died in infancy] and four daughters. The eldest son enlisted in the War of the Rebellion and died of fever in Virginia, May 7, 1863, aged 28 years. Myron Locke and wife, upon a profession of faith in Jesus Christ, and Great Head of the Church, were received as Members into the Baptist Church at Wyoming, N. Y., in 1843, and for ten years was the Superintendent of the Sabbath School there. In 1866 he moved to Perry, N. Y., and united with the Baptist Church at that place, and soon after was chosen one of its Deacons, and served the church for 25 years, and for several years was one of its trustees. He was one of the originators of the Wyoming County Pioneer Historical Association and one of its Constituent Members and was for six years its President, and one of its trustees. He was one of the Building Committee and for 20 years was Chairman of the Executive Board. He was a farmer all thru his married life, until infirmity made it necessary for him to retire from farming, his wife having died in 1884 aged 70 years." Myron died in 1903 or 1904 in Castile, New York.

Notes for Charles Seymour Andrus

Charles was in Clarendon Township, Orleans County, New York, came with his parents in 1844 to a pioneer home near Hastings, Michigan. All kinds of game were plentiful there, and friendly Indians often came by and tried to exchange berries or fish for flour. Settlers would go many miles to get an opportunity to work in the harvest fields from sunrise to sunset for one dollar per day. There was plenty to eat but money was scarce. Charles attended the old district school winters and worked on the farm summers. After their marriage, Charles and Cynthia settled on an eighty-acre farm near the Seymour Andrus home. It was wild and rough and not too fertile. After years of hard work, it was subdued, and under their skillful management, became a fine farm that never failed good crops. There were six children born to this couple, four of which grew to maturity. Charles and Cynthia were clean decent people who took life seriously, lived in the fear of God and treated others, as they would like to be treated. It is recalled that upon one occasion many years ago, a gang of threshers were at the Charles Andrus farm. After the noon meal, while Charles was doing various chores, the gang of men engaged in telling rather lewd stories. However, they kept their eye on their host and their respect for him was such that as soon as he was approaching, one of the men said, "Careful, boys. Charlie is coming." Risqué stories were stopped at once and the weather was under discussion when he arrived on the scene. In their later years, both Charles and Cynthia lived with and were cared for by their daughter Nora at her home in Bergen, New York.

The 1894 Michigan State Census Schedule for Hastings, Barry County, Michigan shows Seymour Andrus age 73, Mariah Andrus age 75, Frank Wolcott age 25, Daisy Wolcott age 18; Charles Andrew age 52; Cynthia Andrew age 52; Nora Andrew age 24; Ada Andrew age 19; Harley Andrew age 15. The 1900 Michigan State Census Schedule for Hastings, Barry County, Michigan shows Charles Andrus born July 1841 age 58, farmer with wife Cynthia born Aug 1841 age 58, married 34 years with 4 of her 6 children living: Harlie born March 1879 age 21, farm laborer; Nora born Sept 1869 age 30; Ada born May 1878 age 22. The 1920 census for Bergen, Genesee County, New York shows Herbert Langdon age 58, carpenter general building with wife Nora age 50, born in Michigan and in-laws Charles Andrus age 78 and wife Sintia [as written] age 78.

Notes for George W. Wolcott

George is a descendant of Henry Wolcott who came to the Colonies in 1635. He was born in 1841 in Ohio. His parents died when he was very young, and an uncle reared him. At the age of 20 years, and soon after his marriage, he enlisted at Dowagiac, Michigan, in the 1st Michigan Cavalry, Company M, in which he served with distinction for the full term of his three-year enlistment. He was wounded and taken prisoner at Monterey, Maryland, on 4 July 1863. He was exchanged and returned to his company 20 July 1864 and was discharged from service 6 Sept 1864, at the close of his term of enlistment. During his imprisonment his wound was not properly cared for and did not heal properly, a fact that hastened his death in 1882. By trade he was an expert stucco worker, a mode of interior decoration much in vogue at that time.

The 1870 census for Hastings, Barry County, Michigan shows the household of Seymour Andrus which includes:

George Wolcott age 29, stone mason born in Ohio; Mary [Andrus] Wolcott age 27, born in New York; Fred Wolcott age 5; Frank Wolcott age 1, born in Michigan.

Notes for Enoch Andrus

Enoch Andrus was a very quiet, serious and studious man. He obtained his early education in the difficult but thorough way: by candlelight after the days' tasks were done. He later attended the State Normal College at Ypsilanti, Michigan, and completed courses at the University of Michigan and at the State Agricultural College at Lansing. He was a profound scholar with a remarkable memory for detail, even in his last years. Always a student, he was a constant reader throughout his life and only the best of books were permitted in his home. Strongly Republican, his keen and active interest in local, state and national affairs never ceased. Enoch was a very successful instructor, although much of his life was devoted to agriculture. He served as County Clerk for several terms, and was for many years School Commissioner of Barry County, during which time, by untiring effort, the rural schools of the County were greatly improved and modernized. About 1910 he acquired the "Clare Sentinel", a newspaper at Clare, Michigan, which he owned and edited for several years. His first wife, Harriet, died June 24, 1921 aged 72. Enoch married secondly, Helen Josephine Millsapugh. She graduated from Oberlin College with the class of 1878, and after doing post-graduate work at Oberlin, the University of Wisconsin, the University of Southern California, and completing a library course at Ypsilanti, she taught History and English in several High Schools in Indiana and Michigan and in the Mission School for Negro girls at Anniston, Alabama. She was employed in the office of the Auditor General at Lansing, Michigan, for several years.

The 1880 census for Hastings, Barry County, Michigan shows Enoch Andrus age 34, county clerk with wife Harriet age 31, keeping house and children: Charles S. age 6, at school; Roy age 2; Seymour D. age 7/12. Also in the household is Harriet Townsend age 18, servant. The 1900 census for Irving, Barry County, Michigan shows Enoch Andrus born Feb 1846 age 54, farmer with wife Hattie born May 1849 age 57, married 27 years with 4 of her 6 children living: Roy born Feb 1878 age 22, teacher; Seymour born Nov 1879 age 20, teacher; Arthur born July 1885 age 14, at school. The 1910 census for Clare, Clare County, Michigan shows Enoch Andrus age 54 [sic], newspaper editor with wife Hattie age 51 [sic], married 29 years with 4 of her 5 children living and son Arthur age 22, college student. The 1920 census for Clare, Clare County, Michigan shows Enoch Andrus age 68, newspaper publisher and Hattie age 66, both born in Michigan and their parents born in New York.

Notes for Harriet M. Spaulding

Harriet was a descendant of Edward Spaulding who came to Jamestown, Virginia in 1619, then to Braintree, Massachusetts in 1625. She was called "Hattie" and her gravestone shows "Hattie M."

7064 v Arthur ANDRUS, born 3 Jul 1885 in Hastings, Barry County, Michigan; died 4 Jul 1913 in Clare, Clare County, Michigan; buried in Riverside Cemetery, Hastings, Michigan. Notes: Arthur was educated in the public schools of Hastings. After his graduation he worked in the U.S. Post Office Department for some years with a view to earn funds to continue his education. He graduated from the University of Michigan Law School June of 1913. His death was caused by being stuck by lightning while reporting for his father's paper at the Clare County Fair. He was of a sunny, jovial disposition and was loved by all who knew him. He was unmarried.

7065 vi Grace ANDRUS, born 24 Oct 1889 in Hastings, Barry County, Michigan; died 12 Oct 1890 in Hastings, Barry County, Michigan; buried in Riverside Cemetery, Hastings, Michigan.

7905 i Sarah Elizabeth 8 TRUSSEL, born 30 Jul 1843 in New London, Merrimack County, New Hampshire; died 5 Aug 1881 in New London, Merrimack County, New Hampshire. She married on 8 Apr 1875 in New London, Merrimack County, New Hampshire John W. MORSE.

7906 ii Mary Knowlton 8 TRUSSEL2957, born 4 Jan 1846 in New London, Merrimack County, New Hampshire; died 28 Feb 1883 in Shapleigh, York County, Maine. She married on 17 Jun 1882 Charles Patterson BENNETT. Notes: Mary Knowlton married Reverend Charles Patterson Bennett, pastor of the Baptist Church in Shapleigh, Maine, where she passed the few brief months of life that remained to her. She was graduated from the New London institution as valedictorian of the class of 1870, and purposed teaching as a profession; but family claims seemed stronger, and she remained at home, caring for her mother and sister in their last illnesses. Then a life of usefulness and happiness in a new sphere seemed to open before her in the home at Shapleigh. A few weeks after her marriage Mrs. Bennett contracted whooping cough, and her naturally delicate constitution, weakened by the cares of the preceding years, gave way under the force of the disease, and after a few months of extreme suffering she passed away 28 Feb 1883, leaving her husband, the little daughter of her 3033 Ibid., pp. 211, 234.

The Descendants of Lieut. John Andrews of Ipswich, Essex County, Massachusetts. by Betty Andrews Storey 2009

17 years, was born in Essex, and was the son of Caleb and Rachel Low. Reenlisted the 3d of December, 1861, in Capt. Bartlett's Company I, Twentieth Massachusetts Volunteers, infantry. After being mustered into camp they were ordered to Poolesville, Maryland. He was in the battle at Yorktown under McClellan, also in the seven days' battle, so called. He received a flesh wound in the leg at Antietam battle, and another in the thigh at Gettysburg. He was also in the Fredericksburg battle under Burnside and Meade. He was appointed corporal in 1862; came home November 16, 1863, and remained twenty-five days, when he returned to his regiment at Stephensburg.

In addition to the above, for which obligations are due to J. C. Choate, town clerk of Essex, for the use of the records made by him, not only in this, but in numerous other cases, the following facts and incidents are derived from Mr. Low the soldier, himself. They are miscellaneous, and do not follow in strictly chronological order. "At the Fredericksburg battle on the 11th or 12th of December, 1862, out of sixty men in our company, we lost thirty-five." He was wounded by a spent ball at Antietam battle on the 17th of September 1862, and carried off to the hospital. "Gen. Dana commanded our brigade, Sedgwick the division, and Sumner the corps. At Gettysburg, the rebels shelled us two hours on the last day. I was wounded in the thigh the third day. Col. Revere was killed, and Col. Nacy had his left arm shot off. Only three officers of our regiment came out of the battle unhurt, of the whole seventeen that went in. Our captain, Abbot, son of Judge Abbot, has since been made major. Our regiment was near the centre, which is said by the official reports, to have been harder pressed than any other part of the army. In answer to questions put to him, Mr. Low says the music is never played in battle; and as to disposing of the men in open order to prevent slaughter, it is not done. In the battle of Savage's Station, in July, we first drove the rebels, but after dark they drove us. Col. Meagher's (Irish) regiment was alongside of ours; a spirited fellow on a mule carried their flag. Savage's Station is, say ten to twelve miles from Richmond; we could see the steeples at times. Surgical operations are performed in a very short time. I have seen Doctor Hazard with his sleeves rolled up and pants all bloody, while amputating limbs. Chloroform is used freely. At Yorktown, we saw the very spot, as we were told, where Cornwallis surrendered." The 1880 census for Essex, Essex County, Massachusetts shows the household of Caleb Low age 34 that includes his brother William B. Low age 35, butcher.

4144. William BURNHAM (Rachel Burnham, Hannah Goodhue, Rachel Story, Rachel Andrews, William John), born 20 Dec 1811 in Essex, Essex County, Massachusetts; died before 1910. 8305 iii Martha S. 8 STORY 3071, 3072, born 1857 in Essex, Essex County, Massachusetts. Notes: The following from "History of the Town of Essex, Massachusetts" reference: [1860] "A rare instance of the early development of musical talent is exhibited, this year, in a child three years old, Martha S. P. Story, a daughter of Mr. Andrew Story, 2d. The following account is chiefly condensed from a 'Biographical Sketch by Miss Hannah C. Marshall,' published this year: 'In 1859, Martha, then only two years and nine months old, startled her parents by playing a part of a familiar psalm-tune on the melodeon. Miss Marshall taught her the air and bass of a few simple tunes; and soon after, she began to imitate what she heard others play. Before the close of the year she could play eight tunes. In May of this year, she could play more than fifty different pieces, with both hands, in perfect harmony of two, three or four parts, in good time, with ease and with great expression at the first attempt. In February, she played for the first time on the piano. She also played the organ at one of the churches in town one Sabbath. The little musician was not merely an imitator, however, but composed several tunes which were written down in musical characters, while she was playing them, and two of which were published. April 6th, she gave a concert in town, playing fourteen pieces. Not long after, she gave several concerts in Gloucester, Salem and Boston, which were attended by large audiences. Her performance,' wrote B. P. Shillaber, Esq., in the "Boston Saturday Evening Gazette", 'is not the mere child's play of picking out a tune by the single finger, but she gives the expression of the whole harmony, and all without the least apparent effort. She is an artless and simple child, and plays with as much natural ease and unconsciousness as a bird sings.' In the judgment of Mr. Paine, a musical critic, 'for a child of her age, her performance upon the melodeon and piano forte were absolutely marvelous, for no indications of rote playing or automaton execution were observable.' According to the reporter of the Daily Bee, 'she played the Prairie Flower, arranged as a schottische, in an admirable manner; also Sweet Home, Hamburg, Old Cabin Home, Lightly Row, The Troubadour, and several other tunes, which were heartily applauded, especially Hail Columbia.'" 3071

Notes for David Lewis Story

The following from "History of the Town of Essex, Massachusetts" reference: "David Lewis Story, shoemaker, aged 19 years, was born in Essex, son of David Story, 2d, and Susan Story; enlisted August, 1862, in Company K, Capt. E. L. Giddings, Fortieth Regiment Massachusetts Volunteers, infantry. They were ordered to join the army of the Po томак and afterwards sent to Folly Island, Charleston Harbor, and from that place to Hilton Head. The regiment had been in no battles up to February, 1864.

Statements like this last, however, will not apply to the subsequent history of this distinguished regiment. It elevates the sensibilities of any inhabitant of Essex to know that Essex 'boys' belonged to it. Unlike many others, this regiment served a part of the time as mounted infantry and was detailed to the column intended to operate in Florida. Here, indeed, it served in that capacity, bearing its part in all the conflicts in which the Fortieth was engaged, especially (as Essex men are pleased to know) at Olustee, February 20, 1864, and at Cedar Creek, March 1, 1864; our idea being that leaden balls have seldom rained as they rained there. And it is most gratifying to add in the words of Adj. Gen. Schouler's report, made January, 1866, that 'too much cannot be said of the men composing this regiment. There never was a case of desertion to the enemy, says the report, and though often under the most trying fire, and called into duties deemed almost impossible, yet it can never be said that the Fortieth ever run, or even showed the white feather.'

The following extracts of a letter from this soldier at a much earlier stage of the war, to his young brother, are introduced to show that our soldiers, although often but young and inexperienced, were still by no means discontented or unhappy when away, and even amidst the perils of war. He dates at Camp Ethan Allen, September 26th, 1862: "Dear brother, I have just come in from the woods and thought you would like to hear from me. About four hundred of us have been out into the woods, detailed to cut down trees, and you better believe we have cut some. There are so many detailed from every company, and they have been at work now for about three days. They let the trees remain just where they happened to fall. The reason for cutting them is partly because they obstruct our view of the rebels, and partly that the trees may obstruct their march. The woods belong to the rebel Gen. Lee, and his house is right in sight of the woods. They estimate the wood we have cut at twelve hundred cords, and it is the very best kind. Our living is good, much better than it was at Boxford. We have been expecting an attack by the rebs every night since we have been here. The place was taken from them about one year ago, and there are graves all round back of the hill. We have picked up lots of balls,' etc. Want of room forbids making further extracts."

The 1880 census for Beverly, Essex County, Massachusetts shows David L. Story age 37, works in shoe shop with wife Georgia A. O. age 31 and daughter Carrie L. age 11. Obituary in local paper reads "He moved here (Cady's Falls) from Underhill 27 years ago, and only a short time passed since the 40th anniversary with Miss Sarah Gallup, also of Underhill. Several children were born to them, only two of whom are living; Clayton, who, with his family, are on the old homestead at the Cady's Falls and Morristown road and Ella (Mrs. E. W. L'Heureux of Montpelier)...the remains were interred in the family lot at Morrisville. George Story was a Christian in the full meaning of the word, and in earlier life, before failing health and cares prevented, had been an earnest worker of the Master's kingdom. He was a chorister for many years...An earnest God-fearing man he was, never seeking for public honors, but doing the work that lay nearby."

Children of George STORY and Sarah GALLUP were as follows:

Clayton J. STORY, born 9 Dec 1857 in Underhill, Chittenden County, Vermont; died 13 Dec 1923 in Morristown, Lamoille County, Vermont. He married Jennie Martha BINGHAM.

13 Nov 1797 in Ipswich, Essex County, Massachusetts; died 28 Jul 1856 in Essex, Essex County, Massachusetts. He married on 19 Nov 1826 in Essex, Essex County, Massachusetts Susannah ANDREWS314, 315(see 5586), born 18 Nov 1804 in Essex, Essex County, Massachusetts, daughter of Ebenezer ANDREWS and Susannah MARSHALL.

Notes for Zaccheus Burnham

"History of the Town of Essex": "The sea life of Mr. Zaccheus Burnham was marked by incidents of interest, and escapes from danger common to those who 'do business in great waters'. Sailing [aboard the "Delphos"] from Salem in November 1821, he made a voyage to the port of Batavia, in the Island of Java, thence to Samarang on the Malay coast, back again to Batavia and thence to Boston, arriving Sept 4, 1822. Off the Cape of Good Hope- as appears in his log book- the ship encountered a gale of wind, which lasted six days. She was also struck by lightening and several of the crew was stunned, but no one was killed. On the homeward passage, Sept 9, 1822, in latitude 12 degrees, longitude 40 degrees west, saw a small sail ahead and judged to be a pirate. Bore away from her, and made preparations to engage her; knocked open our ports, (the "Delphos" was a heavy ship, and showed ports like a sloop-of-war); showed our teeth-quaker guns and all-- and gave her a gun, when she immediately clapped on sail and steered to the westward."

The 1850 census for Essex, Essex County, Massachusetts shows Zaccheus Burnham age 52, shipwright with wife Susannah age 45 and children: John L. age 21, shipwright; Edith age 19; Hannah S. age 17; Robert M. age 12; Harlan P. age 10; Rollins M. age 7; Lucy C. age 4. passage from Florida to Fortress Monroe by a collision with the "Cumberland". He was sent to the hospital and in September he returned to his regiment. He served in several battles before Richmond up to the time of his discharge. The following from "History of the Town of Essex, Massachusetts" reference: "Harlan Page Burnham, aged 20 years, born in Essex, was a sailor and the son of Zaccheus and Susannah Burnham; enlisted November 6, 1861, in Company E, Capt. Hooper, Twenty-fourth Regiment Massachusetts Volunteers, infantry. Left camp at Readville in December 1861, for Annapolis, Maryland, and ordered to join Gen. Burnside's command. He was sick three months from April 1862, and again most of the time in 1863. He was not in the assault on Fort Wagner, as at first understood, being sick, but was ordered to Morris Island and thence to St. Augustine, Florida, where the troops remained some four months, after which they were ordered to Jacksonville, (Florida) where they arrived the day before the battle of Olustee. Having here done duty as provost guard, they were next ordered to Gloucester Point, opposite Yorktown. Mr. Burnham's statement is full of interesting historical events, but comes too late to be inserted in full. It will be put upon file for future reference."

Rollins Merrill BURNHAM3123, 3124, born 31 May 1843 in Essex, Essex County, Massachusetts. Notes: The 1870 census for Brookville, Ogle County, Illinois shows Rollins M. Burnham age 27, farm hand, born in Massachusetts [this individual?]. Rollins M. Burnham did not marry Laura Ann Judson, that Rollins Burnham was born in New York and went to Iowa. The following from "History of the Town of Essex, Massachusetts" reference: "Rollins M. Burnham, son of Zaccheus Burnham, deceased, and Susannah Burnham, was born May 31, 1844, enlisted April 16, 1861, in the First Minnesota Regiment, where he was at that time residing. In this regiment he served eighteen months, when he was honorably discharged. He subsequently enlisted in the regular army, Nineteenth Regiment, First Battalion, Company A, of the United States Infantry. He was in the first Bull Run battle in July, 1861, and at Ball's Bluff, and in all General Sherman's battles up to the time of leaving Atlanta. He was left on guard at Lookout Mountain until August 1865 when he was ordered to Augusta, Georgia."

Has an article concerning Essex boat building: "Go See Harold! He Can Do It"
The building of the Thomas E. Lannon [Located at Seven Seas Wharf at the Gloucester House Restaurant]
Wooden Boat Magazine August 1998; By Mattew P. Murphy [excerpts from that publication, others under Arthur D. Story]:

"In the middle 1600's, a man named Burnham launched a boat into the salt marsh that connects Chebacco Parish, Ipswich, Massachusetts, to the Atlantic oceans. No one knows for sure what kind of boat it was, although speculation has it that it was double-ended and built in an attic. Likewise, no one knows for sure whether the story is true that two men sailed the boat all the way to the Bay of Fundy and back, although anyone with Chebacco blood would like to believe that. In face, no one knows whether any of this story is true at all, because the record is just too scant. But, since nobody's protesting this local legend, it seems an appropriate point at which to introduce Harold Burnham's background.

This boat of legend, the first built at Chebacco by European settlers, and this Mr. Burnham gave rise to decades, and then centuries of shipbuilding. Chebacco Parish became Essex - a town in her own right - during this time, and thousands more vessels were launched into the salt marsh there, a body of water known as the Essex River. The yards where these schooners were built were often not much larger than the vessels themselves.

The place was rife with Burnham. Like many small towns years ago, there was a paucity of surnames in Essex; most people were called either Story, Andrews, or Burnham. Despite common ancestry, relationships among people today possessing the same last name are considered so tenuous, so obscure, as to be nonexistent. "I only know back to my back to my great-great-grandfather, Oliver Burnham," Harold Burnham told me last February, when I finally caught him between boatbuilding projects. We were sitting in his shop, which occupies the loft of a barn that looks across a small creek near the site where the Lannon was built. Harold was relaxed that day, and as intent on our conversation as he had been on building a schooner the year before. "He built this barn. His son, also Oliver Burnham, built boats in the 1860s. This Oliver's son was O.P., and O.P. worked for A.D. Story building fo'c's'les and doing carpentry. His brother Alden worked for A.D. as a foreman. And my grandfather worked for A.D. Story as a kid in the 1920's." In the index of Howard Chapelle's 'The American Fishing Schooners:1925-1935, 12 Burnhams are listed. All of them were shipbuilders.

"When my grandfather was getting started in boatbuilding, the unions were getting started, too. He gave up boatbuilding to go to work as a union carpenter in Quincy, which was a pretty radical thing to do. Alden Burnham, who was his uncle, bet him five dollars that he'd be back building boats in a few weeks. My grandfather didn't come back for 40 years, and Alden never paid the bet."

So the family drifted from boatbuilding-professionally, at least. But it seems to have remained in the genes. "My father worked at Massachusetts General [Hospital] designing machines that take pictures of people's brains," Harold told me, "and that's about as accurate a description as I can give you of his job. But when he wasn't in Boston working, he was home building boats." This boatbuilding, however, was far from the typical hobby. His attitude, says Harold, was "Let's get it done." And indeed he did, for one-year Harold's father built a Friendship sloop in nine months of part-time labor - he worked weekends and evenings, after 12 hours on the day job. "When I was growing up," laughed Harold, "if I wanted to be with my father - if I wanted to see him at all - I had to go over and build boats with him."

Harold started building small boats when he was in grammar school, and made his college money rebuilding Beetle cats and selling those. He attended Massachusetts Maritime Academy, got his merchant papers, and went to sea. His plan was to ship for half of the year and build boats for the other half, but hanging out in union halls waiting for jobs wore awfully thin. And then came love, then came marriage, then came Harold and the baby carriage. A shore-based job looked better and better, and building boats was the thing to do. His recent projects include the rebuilding of a 1953 Crosby..."
Striper, a new bow for a local lobsterboat, and work on the rebuilding of a SPRAY replica. He also took - and continues to take - paying guests lobstering in his rebuilt Friendship sloop.

Although he never paid the bet, when Harold's uncle Alden died he left to Harold's grandfather the site of the former Burnham family shipyard. The land sits on a small creek that feeds into the Essex River, and on the land today are a house and a barn. And in the barn is Harold Burnham's shop. You can lob a rock across the creek and into the yard of the Essex Shipbuilding Museum, which is the former site of the A.D. Story Shipyard." [The article continues referring to Arthur Dana Story].

Notes for George Washington Burnham

The following from "History of the Town of Essex, Massachusetts" reference: "George Washington Burnham was born February 22, 1830, and was the son of Michael and Thirza Burnham. He enlisted in the Thirty-ninth. His history being involved with that of Albert A. Haskell, Rufus E. Mears, Daniel Burnham, and others in the same regiment, and substantially the same, need not be minutely repeated. His 'verbal statement is that on the 18th of August, 1864, in company with Albert A. Haskell, he was captured with some two thousand others, and kept at Petersburg, Virginia, and at Ship Island, some four days: thence first to Libby prison, in Richmond, where they remained but two days, after which they were removed across the James to Belle Isle. Here they found themselves among seven to eight thousand Union prisoners. The battle in which these prisoners were captured was at Weldon railroad. From Belle Isle they were removed to Salisbury prison, North Carolina, from which receptacle of living death they were not discharged until February 22, 1865. At first and for a time, they were allowed flour bread, but afterwards corn bread made of the corn and cob ground together. Once in four or five days, and sometimes only once in about ten days, they were allowed a 'bit of beef' if so it might be called, sometimes liver, lights, tripe uncleaned, and once in a while a little sorghum. There were five days,' not consecutive indeed, says Mr. B., 'when we had no food whatever.' The prisoners were confined by a close board fence, with a guard on the outside so elevated that they could see over. On one occasion our soldiers being driven to desperation by hunger, attempted to break out, but were fired upon by the guard. Sixteen were killed and about forty wounded. There was, of course, no other attempt to break. Mr. B. says there was no sickness, as such, in the prison, but the want of shelter was as destructive to life all hunger itself. After a parole was finally ordered, the soldiers were sent first to Greensborough, say fifty miles, the whole distance, except about fifteen miles, being performed on foot. The effect of prison life, as might be expected, was different upon different men. Mr. Burnham's eye-sight was impaired, and continued so a long time, so that when sent to Greensborough, he was unable to do night-marching with any safety, falling into culverts, etc. He thinks many others were similarly affected. The scurrv was also one of the sequels of prison life, as jaundice had been one of the earlier ailments of it. Chronic diarrhoea did not affect him particularly, until paroled and on the way home. The almost endless fighting at the Wilderness, the battle at Weldon railroad, before mentioned, and that at Petersburg, were the principal, if not the only battles in which Mr. B. was engaged. 'We had no chaplain or surgeon in the prison except rebels. The soldiers,' says Mr. B., 'were not all young men by any means, though generally so. In our company one was sixty years old, a Mr. Gibbs, and a 'right good soldier he.' Some others were fifty or over, and yet excellent soldiers.' Mr. Burnham believes that explosive bullets were used by rebs to some extent, though the fact has not been referred to by any other Essex soldier, perhaps because not questioned with regard to it. A soldier from Danvers on his immediate left, Mr. B. thinks, was shot with one of these dreadful missiles, as an explosion appeared to him to take place when the ball struck, which it did in the head. The soldier in falling, fell upon Mr. B."

The 1860 census for Essex, Essex County, Massachusetts shows George W. Burnham age 30, shoemaker with wife Esther B. age 27 and family including sister-in-law Carrie Burnham age 19. The 1870 census for Essex, Essex County, Massachusetts shows George age 37, shoemaker with wife Esther age 35 and children: Thursa E. Notes for James Horace Burnham

The following from "History of the Town of Essex, Massachusetts" reference: "James Horace Burnham, son of Michael and Patience Burnham, enlisted at the age of 19 years, being in July, 1862, into the Thirty-ninth Massachusetts, Col. P. S. Davis, Company A, Capt. Nelson. This regiment left the State on the 6th of September, and were ordered to the defenses of Washington, where they remained until July 6, 1863, when they joined the Army of the Potomac. Their first engagement was at Mine Run, Virginia, on the 29th and 30th of December, 1863, although they had had some skirmishes under Gen. Meade; indeed the army had been under Gen. Meade wholly till this time, when the command was taken by Gen. Grant. In the following Spring they crossed the Rapidan, and attacked the rebel army, May 6th, at the Wilderness, Virginia. The fighting continued until the 8th, when he was wounded by a rifle ball in the abdomen. This was the fight near Spottsylvania Court House, and that ball he carried till the 14th of March, 1865, when it was extracted at the Summit House hospital in Philadelphia. Up to the time of being wounded Mr. B. had never been away from the regiment, although he had had a typhoid fever, disqualifying him for duty some eight weeks. He never joined the regiment after the ball was extracted, and after the surrender of Lee, was discharged."

\item \(8557\) ii Frederick Dennett BURNHAM\(^{3190}\), born 11 Aug 1846 in Exeter, Rockingham County, New Hampshire. Notes: "The following is the interesting war record of his [Edwin Burnham, taken from the Burnham genealogy reference, pp 406-407] second son, Captain Frederick Dennett Burnham: This young officer, at the time of entering the service, was a student at Harvard University, but deeming his duty to his country paramount to all else, he gave up his studies, and at the age of seventeen years entered the army as 1st lieutenant, United States Volunteer Engineers, early in the year 1864, and served in that capacity in the Department of the Gulf. In December 1863, an expedition was fitted out at Barrancas, Florida, for the destruction of the stores and munitions of war at Pollard, Alabama, and Lieutenant Burnham, then on 'sick leave,' volunteered to accompany the expedition, and was placed in command of Company A, United States Colored Troops. The expedition was successful, but on the return the Union forces were met by the rebels at the Escambia River Bridge, and a sharp fight ensued. It being deemed necessary to carry the bridge by storm, the 97th, under Colonel George D. Robinson, was ordered forward, and charged the bridge under a terrific fire of musketry. Colonel Robinson fell wounded at the first fire, and the regiment was led across the bridge by Lieutenant Burnham, who, while cheering on his men, fell severely wounded, and disabled from further service. For this act of daring Lieutenant Burnham was especially mentioned for gallantry in the report to the commanding officer, and promoted to be captain by brevet. At the close of the war Captain Burnham was appointed assistant on the United States Improvement Surveys in the north-west, but in consequence of a fall from his horse, in Iowa, that reopened his wounds, he was obliged to abandon the profession of engineering, and is now practicing that of law." POWER, born 1 Apr 1850 in Prince Edward Island, Canada, daughter of William POWER and Mary Ann ROGERS. Notes: John had no children. He was a seaman in the U.S. Navy, enlisting in January 1862 and served on the ironclad Nahant, discharged 9 March 1863. He resided as an invalid at Glen St. Mary, Florida. The following is from the website, Dec 2006: http://www.history.navy.mil/photos/sh-usn/usnsh-nnahant.htm

USS Nahant (1862-1904), briefly renamed Atlas in 1869. The USS Nahant, a 1335-ton Passaic class monitor, was built at South Boston, Massachusetts. She was commissioned in late December 1862 and arrived in South Carolina waters in February 1863 to become part of the South Atlantic Blockading Squadron. A few days later, on 3 March, she participated in a bombardment of Fort McAllister, Georgia, as part of a test of the combat qualities of the U.S. Navy's new monitors. Nahant was one of nine ironclads that attacked Fort Sumter, South Carolina, on 7 April 1863. In this action against the centerpiece of Charleston harbor's defenses, the limitations of the monitor design were clearly demonstrated along with their powers of resistance to heavy gunfire. Nahant was hit 36 times by Confederate gunners and was left with a disabled turret and one man killed. Following repairs, Nahant moved to Wassau Sound, Georgia, where she supported USS Weehawken in a battle on 17 June 1863 that quickly produced the surrender of the Confederate ironclad Atlanta. During the following July, August and September, the monitor joined several of her sisters in a lengthy campaign against Charleston's fortifications that bore fruit with the capture of Battery Wagner, on Morris Island. On 15-16 November 1863, Nahant again bombarded enemy defenses and helped rescue USS Lehigh after that monitor went aground under fire. For the rest of the Civil War, Nahant remained in the South Carolina area, supporting the blockade by deterring an attack by Confederate ironclads based at Charleston. On 2 February 1865, she took part in the destruction of the grounded blockade runner Presto. Nahant was decommissioned in August 1865, some months after the conflict's end, and was laid up at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, for more than three decades. She was renamed Atlas in June 1869 but regained her original name a few months later. When the Spanish-American War began in April 1898, Nahant was placed back in commission. She performed coastal defense duties in New York Harbor through the short war, then returned to Philadelphia for lay up. USS Nahant was sold for scrapping in April 1904.

Notes for Ruth Allen

The following item is from a letter written by Mrs. Wealthy E. Brooks of Calais, Maine, published in the Eastport Sentinel (Eastport, Maine) on 27 Jan. 1932. Wealthy had grown up in Robbinston, Maine, married Abel Brooks in 1867. Steve Robbins found this article (a lengthy and interesting one) at Maine State Library in Augusta, Maine (call number: 974.1 tR63): "Robbinston As It Used To Be". [excerpt about Ruth Allen]: "The young people of today know nothing about hard work. The girls hired out spinning wool to make cloth. We country girls could all spin. Mr. Storer at Mill Cove had a carding mill and Mr. Storer made all the rolls and the women did the spinning. We had four women in town who did the weaving, Mrs. Ruth Sherman, Mrs. James Ferson, Mrs. Davis Diffin and Mrs. Waterman. To make coats and pants we had the cloth woven twilled and then sent to a Mr. Peabody at Princeton who dyed and pressed it. After that we got a home woman and a tailor to make the garments."

Christopher was educated at Frances Town Academy Law School Harvard University; admitted to the Massachusetts Bar in 1850; practiced at Lower Falls and Boston, Massachusetts for several years. Upon the organization of Kansas as a territory, he removed thither, 1854, becoming the regular correspondent of the "Boston Post". Appointed as Clerk in the Third Auditors Office by President Pierce, in Washington D.C.; later transferred to office of the Solicitor of the Treasury. Resigned in 1857, and settled at St. Cloud, Minnesota; served in the State Senate as a Democrat in 1859; was on the Douglas Democratic electoral ticket of Minnesota in 1860. Christopher enlisted in the Civil War; was appointed a Captain; was confined in Libby prison for a short time, then he was exchanged. Later he was a Lieutenant Colonel, then Colonel, then Brigadier General and then Major General by brevet. He served as United States minister to Stockholm from July 1869, to Nov. 1877, during which time he made many reports to the Department of State on Swedish institutions, manufacturers and trades. He aided in the reduction of postage and in securing participation by Sweden and Norway in the Centennial Exhibition at Philadelphia in 1876. Shortly before leaving Stockholm, King Oscar II, at a dinner, which he gave to the Diplomatic body, proposed General Andrews' health, and among other things said that he had been the most useful Minister that had ever been sent to Sweden from the United States. He served as Consul General of the U.S. to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, from 1882 to 1885. Among his legal and literary work are a "Digest of Opinions of the Attorney Generals," and a Treatise of the Revenue Laws of the U.S., and he projected and edited the Official History of the Minnesota Troops in the Civil and Indian Wars. He was the Secretary of the Minnesota Forestry Board, 1899-1923. Christopher was the Supervisor of the U.S. Census in Minnesota in 1880. He was the Forestry Commissioner of Minnesota 1895-1911. Minnesota has a state forest in Pine County named after General Christopher Columbus Andrews, a Civil War general and Minnesota's first chief fire warden.

The Descendants of Lieut. John Andrews of Ipswich, Essex County, Massachusetts. by Betty Andrews Storey 2009

County Recorder in 1867-1868; County Judge in 1868. In 1869 he was admitted to the Bar in Audubon County. In 1872 he studied in the Law Department of Iowa State University at Iowa City, Iowa. Henry was state Senator 1892-1895. He was the compiler of the "History of the Andrews Family", published by him; also of a very complete hand-written manuscript now in the New England Historical and Genealogical Society library in Boston, Massachusetts. Several years before he died, Henry gave up the practice of law and devoted all of his time to genealogy doing research and having an extensive correspondence with Andrews all over the country.

During the Civil War, Henry served in the Maryland campaign in the fall of 1862; he was at the battle of Fredericksburg, Virginia, in December, 1862, on detached service; was with his regiment on Burnside’s “Mud March” at Falmouth, Virginia, in the early part of 1863; and at the battle of Chancellorsville, Virginia, May 1863; was with his regiment on the march to Gettysburg, in June, 1863, until taken sick at Centreville, Virginia, and sent to the hospital; he joined the regiment again in August, 1863, at Rappahannock Station, Virginia, and served on the advance to the Rapidan River; the retreat to Centreville; the Mine Run Expedition, in the fall of that year, the regiment serving as the extreme Infantry outpost of the army, at Mitchell's Station, Virginia, the following winter; after which he participated in the battles of Wilderness, and Spottsylvania, and all the engagements of the Army of the Potomac up to June 1864, when on account of ill health and inability to perform further duty in active service, he was sent to Washington, D. C. and placed on Detached Service, on which he served until discharged on July 13, 1865. This regiment was constantly in active service during its entire term and suffered heavy loss, both on the battle filed and from disease during its term of service the regiment bore upon its rolls nearly two thousand officers and men, including recruits. Of this number, 178 were killed in battle and died of wounds; 241 died of disease, 188 wounded in action and 277 discharged for disability. In October, 1867, Henry went to Audubon county, Iowa, and settled at Exira, Iowa, whither his parents had removed, which has since been his principal place of residence; he was elected County Recorder of the county and served as such in 1867 and 1868, and as County Judge in 1868. In 1869 he was admitted to the bar, in Audubon County, and since then has been principally engaged in practicing law; in 1872 he studied law in the Law Department of the Iowa State University, at Iowa City, Iowa. He is a practicing lawyer, and resides at Audubon and Exira, Iowa. He is the compiler of this work [footnoted reference].

The 1880 census for Exira, Audubon County, Iowa shows Frank Andrews age 36, lawyer with wife Jane age 30 and children: Charles age 8; Claude age 6; Jessie age 3; cousin Albert Andrews age 16; cousin Nellie Cooper age 21; boarder James Willox [future husband of Nellie Cooper] age 27, born in Scotland, buying grain. GRIFFIN and Lydia REDFIELD.

Notes for Charles Woodbury Giddings

Charles moved in 1857 to Table Rock, Nebraska Territory. Obituary: DEATH of C. W. GIDDINGS

"The death of this well-known citizen was a sad surprise to many of our citizens, who had not learned of his brief illness. Taken sick on Thursday, Dec. 11, after twelve days of suffering, he died Tuesday evening, December 23, 1879. His death was caused by a complication of diseases, which in a younger man might not have proved serious, but overcame, after a brief struggle, a man of Mr. Giddings' age, and with health already somewhat broken by a life of unusual energy and nervous strain. A large concourse of the many who sincerely mourned his death, followed his remains to the grave on Christmas day. Rev. H. T. Davis of Lincoln, presiding elder of this district, conducting the religious exercises. Of a man who was one of the pioneers of the county, who has done as much as any other person toward settling up the county, and who has wielded through all the years of his residence, a powerful influence on the side of law and order, our readers may wish to learn more than the incidents of his death and burial. Old settlers who have been intimately associated with him in an early day, will read with interest a short sketch of this busy life. Newcomers will as well be interested in the life of one who did much to make smooth and easy their settlement within our borders. We therefore give these facts connected with his life: C.W. Giddings was born in the city of Hartford, Conn., in May, 1810, and was at the time of his death, in his 70th year. Two years later the family moved to Wayne County, Pa., where his boyhood and youth were passed. At the age of 18 he united with the M.E. church, and at once fitting himself for the ministry. When 22 he entered the ministry of the denomination with which he had connected, and for 27 years filled appointments throughout Pennsylvania and New York. In 1835 he was married in Owego, New York, to Clarissa Griffing, who survives him, and who has been a most faithful helpmeet, not only in the days of his ministry, but also in his life as a pioneer. But the life of a preacher wore on him severely, and in 1858 he was obliged to give it up because of nervous debility. In company with a number of others, he came to this state in 1858, in search of a county suitable for a colony. He entered the present site of Table Rock, where has ever since been his residence. The following season being sickly, those who started with him returned, discouraged by the outlook. Other settlers of that time, and still residing in the county, are Wm. and Andrew Fellers, C.V. Dimon and R. Samson. When they came there were no houses from South Fork north into Johnson County, except two log houses built by the new arrivals at Table Rock. Pawnee City then possessed but three buildings. His health improving under the influence of change of labor and climate, Mr. Giddings returned to his sacred calling, and for six years was presiding elder..."
of the large district of south-eastern Nebraska, embracing in its confines all that territory lying between the Kansas line and the Platte River, and extending west from the Missouri as far as the settlements were to be found, the border line then not being much beyond Crete and Beatrice. Again did he tax his energies too severely and again was he forced to give up preaching. For the past twelve years he has lived quietly on his farm, in the old town of Table Rock, interested in his farm work, and in the development of the village he had founded, Table Rock. During those twelve years, he has been Superintendent of the M.E.S.S. of that place, and one of the leaders in the church. There is no need for our giving a close analysis of his character. Those who knew him best respected him most. Few men are granted as immense will power as was C.W. Giddings.”

The 1860 census for Table Rock, Pawnee County, Nebraska shows C. W. Giddings age 49, farmer; Teresa [Clarissa ?] age 49; Lydia age 17; Sarah A. age 13; Mary E. age 4; hired man Osman Griffin age 31, all born in New York. The 1870 census for Table Rock, Pawnee County, Nebraska shows Charles Giddings age 60; Fannie [Clarissa ?] age 60; daughter Mary E. age 13, born in Pennsylvania. The 1880 census for Table Rock, Pawnee County, Nebraska shows Clarissa Giddings age 69, keeping house, born in New York. Also in household are Jennie Dunbar age 23, servant and John Beck age 21, farmer/servant. Next door is daughter Fannie Norris and family.

Notes for Clarissa Griffin

Newspaper clipping: GIDDINGS. -- Mrs. Giddings was born in New York, Dec. 29, 1810. Was converted to God at the age of fifteen, united with the M.E. Church shortly afterward, and remained a consistent member of the same to the close of life. For years she professed and enjoyed the blessing of perfect love. In 1835 she was married to Rev. C. W. Giddings. In 1857 they emigrated to Table Rock, Nebraska, where she remained to the day of her death, which was Oct. 17, 1880. She was a faithful and earnest laborer in all the departments of church work; and no place will she be missed more than from the Sabbath school. She manifested a deep concern for the salvation of the young. During her last illness she had rest in Christ. As was expected, her end was peace. C.A. Lewis

Notes for Horace Goodrich Story

Obit: "Milwaukee Sentinel" 4 August 1909: Horace G. Story died at 10 o'clock Tuesday night in his home, Story Hill, Bluemound Road, Wauwatosa, aged 92 years. In early manhood he went to Detroit where he became connected with a firm of founders. In 1857, he moved to Milwaukee and became associated with his brother Hiram F. Story in the quarrying business. The firm was known as the Story Brothers. It held extensive deposits west of the city. After the death of this brother, he conducted the quarry business with his brother's 2 sons, A. L. and W. E. Story, until 1893 when he retired. He was an early member of the Grand Avenue Congregational Church, but later joined Pilgrim Church. His wife died several years ago and he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Robert A. Johnston and a sister Mrs. Martha S. Edson, Milwaukee.

Tour brochure from Historic Milwaukee: Story Hill Spaces and Traces Saturday, May 20, 1993. "Asa and Fanny settled in Wauwatosa Township... In 1857, Horace was asked to run the quarry operations. He moved from Detroit with his wife Eunice and their daughter Ellen... By 1860 the three families were living in the two homes located on the property. Asa and Fanny were still living with Hiram's family. Also living with them was their daughter Fanny Davis, now a widow, and her two children, Alice I. and John M... Fanny died and nine years later. Asa died at the age of 86. They are buried at Forest Home Cemetery... When Pilgrim Congregational Church was organized, Horace was one of the founders... The congregation merged with Grand Avenue Congregational Church in 1916... The census for 1900 finds Horace and Eunice still living in their home with niece Sara Fisk and a servant."

Notes for Hiram Fisk Story

Hiram Story was almost a pioneer. He left Vermont at the age of 25 and headed west to Milwaukee, arriving in 1843. Several years had passed since the first wave of settlement, but there was still plenty of room for newcomers. By 1846, the year Milwaukee was chartered; Story owned 160 acres west of the city. The New Englander's land, bordered by 43rd and 51st Streets between Wisconsin Avenue and Canal Street, included nearly the entire present Story Hill neighborhood. Hiram started a farm above the Menomonee River but an accidental discovery led him to more lucrative pursuits. According to local legend, a storm uprooted a large tree on the farm in the 1850s, revealing a deposit of high-grade dolomite, better known today as Lannon stone. The farmer became a quarryman, supplying the needs of builders throughout the region. Business was so demanding that Hiram's brother, Horace Story, joined him as partner in 1857. The Story brothers' quarry eventually covered what was the north parking lot of old County Stadium, and it spread east beneath present Highway 41 expressway. The brothers built homes on the high ground above the quarry, and the area was soon known as "Story Hill".

Competing stone quarries opened in the Menomonee Valley, among them the Manegold and Monarch operations, which lay just over the hill from the Story quarry. (Filled in today, they constitute Doyne Park.) Between the quarries, at the crest of the hill, was the main road between Milwaukee and all points west. The "highway", little more than two ruts at first, had been blazed in the 1830s to connect the lakeshore city with the little village of Blue Mounds, west and south of Madison. There it joined the old Military Road connecting Green Bay and Prairie du Chien. Most of the route is still in use as Highway 18. Blue Mound Road, as it came to be called, was a country lane in the mid-1800s, but it brought the first non-rural development to the Story Hill area. In 1857, Milwaukee's Catholic diocese opened Calvary Cemetery east of Hawley Road on Blue Mound. It had 10,000 burials by 1880, and its "residents" would eventually include such notables as Solomon Juneau and Patrick Cudahy. As Calvary Cemetery began to fill in, a much larger development was taking shape to the south: the National Soldiers Home. Built in the late 1860s, it was one of four homes in the country serving disabled Civil War veterans. With its winding carriage drives, picturesque lakes and elaborate Victorian buildings, the National Soldiers Home was a mandatory stop for visitors to Milwaukee. Its main entrances, on Blue Mound Road and "National" Avenue, were soon flanked by saloons that served visitors and veterans alike. With the Soldiers Home to the south, Calvary Cemetery to the west, and Milwaukee's border only a mile to the east, Story Hill might have seemed ripe for development. The area lay directly in the path of the city's westward expansion, but a major obstacle retarded its growth for decades: Menomonee Valley. Blue Mound Road entered and left the valley on grades so steep that they were almost treacherous. Although the city was literally in sight, Story Hill remained remote. The valley's west bluff was called "Undertaker's Hill" because of the challenge it posed to funeral processions bound for Calvary Cemetery. The trip to Calvary was so tedious, in fact, that few city priests could afford the time it took to get there. The Catholic archbishop finally prevailed upon the Capuchins order to open a church across from the cemetery. The Capuchins founded Holy Cross parish in 1879 with a dual mission: officiating at graveside services across the street and ministering to German Catholic families in the surrounding farm country. Even after the parish reins passed to the Pallotine order in 1921, cemetery work remained one of the special functions of Holy Cross. Urban development reached the very edge of Story Hill in the late 1800s. A small settlement called Pigsville spread across the Menomonee Valley floor in the 1880s and '90s, its residents drawn by job opportunities in nearby industries, including the Story quarry. But Pigsville was destined to remain an urban village, one of the most isolated communities in the Milwaukee area. The western bluff blocked development farther west, on Story Hill.

Hiram Story, the original landowner, still has a great-grandson living on Blue Mound. But no neighborhood stands still for long, and the natural process of turnover has had a definite impact on Story Hill. In the last ten or fifteen years, especially, older residents have been replaced by families with young children. Many newcomers have brought with them a taste for volunteer involvements ranging from youth soccer to adult politics. More often than not, the strong feeling of community they have found on Story Hill has pleasantly surprised them.

Hiram was a member of the Wisconsin Avenue Congregational Church located at 2133 W. Wisconsin Avenue, Milwaukee, Wisconsin 53223 (now the Irish Cultural and Heritage Center). There is a stained glass window dedicated to him on the east side of the main floor. The 1860 census for Wauwatosa, Milwaukee County, Wisconsin shows Hiram F. Story age 41, farmer born in Vermont with wife Maria M. age 37, born in New York; Albert L. age 9, born in Wisconsin; Willis E. age 3, born in Wisconsin; Asa Story age 77, farmer born in Vermont; Fanny Story age 76 born in Connecticut; Fannie J. County, Vermont Joseph GAY3550, born 4 Sep 1805 in Turnbridge, Orange County, Vermont; died 21 May 1893 in Briggsville, Marquette County, Wisconsin, son of Rufus GAY and Deborah GROW.

Notes for Joseph Gay

Information from Mr. E. J. Brumder: a letter from Ellen Teare McNown dated 17 March 1968, Augusta, Wisconsin: "The Gays had a store in Cleveland, Ohio for two years, then returned to Vermont, buying the Story home farm. They lived there for 15 years until they came to Madison, Wisconsin; going by train to Kingston and by team to the Town of Douglas two and one half miles from the village of Briggsville in 1853, where they located on a farm." Eunice Story and Joseph Gay had eleven children of whom only two lived to maturity, Ellen Francis Gay and James Story Gay. Charles was taken by them when he was a baby and brought up as their own. Eunice was born at Randolph and at the age of 4 years began school, attending until she was 15 when she entered the Academy, now a Normal School at Randolph Center. She taught one term and married at 18 years. Joseph and Eunice went to housekeeping at his father's farm 1 1/2 miles from her father's house. After living there 4 years they moved to Cleveland Ohio where he ran a grocery store with his brother. They returned to Randolph and bought her father's farm where they lived for 10 years until they came to Wisconsin, landing at Madison going by train to Kingston and by team to the Town of Douglas 2 1/2 miles from the village of Briggsville in 1853 where they located on a farm. Theirs was a pioneer's life with its accompanying hardships as well as the customary hospitality to all who came to their door. Eunice Gay had a fine memory and was well versed in the world history of her day. Joseph Gay was an upright God fearing man.

The 1850 census for Randolph, Orange County, Vermont shows Joseph Gay age 44, farmer with wife Eunice age 36; [child brought up as their own] Charles Gay age 13, born in Ohio; Ellen F. Gay age 10, born in Vermont; [parents] Rufus Gay age 75; Jane Gay age 71. The 1860 census for Douglas, (Briggsville post office), Marquette County, Wisconsin shows Joseph Gay age 54, farmer with wife Eunice age 47; Charles age 23; Ellen F. age 20; James age 9 all born in Vermont. The 1870 census for Douglas, Marquette County, Wisconsin shows Joseph Gay age 64, farmer with wife Eunice age 56; James age 19. The 1880 census for Douglas, Marquette County, Wisconsin shows Joseph Gay age 74, farmer with wife Eunice age 66; James S. age 29; Ella M. age 21. The 1900 census for Douglas, Marquette County, Wisconsin shows the James S. Gay household that includes his mother Eunice S. Gay age 86, widow with one child living.

She married Oliver Hazard Perry SARGENT\(3572\), born 1828 in Gloucester, Essex County, Massachusetts; died 30 May 1862 in Essex, Essex County, Massachusetts, son of Jonathan SARGENT, Jr. and Olive (---).

Notes for Oliver Hazard Perry Sargent

Oliver was a ship carpenter in Essex. He served as County Commissioner, Justice of the Peace; Representative to the State Legislature in 1857; Town Clerk 1856-1861. He was wounded at Yorktown 4 May 1862 in the Civil War. The 1850 census for Essex, Essex County, Massachusetts shows Mary Perkins age 67; Henry L. Haskell age 12; Harriet N. Lovelace age 12; Mary Story age 59; Frederick P. Gardner age 39; Oliver H. P. Sargent age 23, laborer. The 1860 census for Essex, Essex County, Massachusetts shows Oliver H. P. Sargent age 32, shipwright with wife Caroline age 31 and children: Caddie Olive age 6; Lucretia age 4.

The following from "History of the Town of Essex, Massachusetts" reference: "Oliver Hazard Perry Sargent, aged 34, was born in Gloucester; ship carpenter. He enlisted at Essex in the Twenty-second Massachusetts Volunteers, Company G. in October 1862, the headquarters of which were at Camp Wilson, Hall's Hill. Va. Mr. Sargent, like several others from Essex, was an easy and ready writer, and kept his friends constantly informed of army movements, both great and small. The following extract of a letter from him while at Hall's Hill in Gen. Fitz John Porter's division, will give an idea of his talent at description, and will also convey an idea of army life under date of February 17, 1862.

"My Dear Sir: I have no doubt you have found the exact position of Hall's Hill, near which we are encamped. Draw upon the map a straight line from Chain Bridge to Munson's Hill and from Ball's crossroads to Miner's Hill. The lines will cross at Hall's Hill. Col. Cass, with the Ninth Massachusetts, is immediately in our front, with the Eighty-third Pennsylvania. Fourteenth New York. Fourth Michigan, the Fourth Rhode Island Battery and Griffin's Battery (Regulars), composing Morale's Brigade. Near us on Hall's Hill are the Second Maine, Eighteenth Massachusetts. Follet's Battery, and Twenty fifth New York, composing with our regiment. Martindale's or the Second Brigade. Near us on the other side, is the Seventeenth New York, and in our rear the Forty-fourth New York, Sixty-third Pennsylvania, and the New Jersey Stockton Regiment, and on Mount Olivet, a little farther in the rear, the Fifth Massachusetts Battery, composing Gen. Butterfield's Brigade. In addition to these are two cavalry regiments just in our rear, one from Pennsylvania, the other (McClellan's Rangers) from Kentucky. Altogether composing Gen. Porter's division, It is a grand army. I have seen seventy-five thousand men on one field since I have been here, and on several occasions have seen reviews of forty thousand. Col. Wilson was out to see us yesterday and told us we had only to wait for the traveling. Two long trains of artillery are in Washington ready to move. One of the trains has only hundred eighty-eight pound cannon; the other has one hundred one-hundred pound cannon. In addition to these, there are several batteries of light artillery and two hundred wagons loaded with ammunition. The army has been building a road from Georgetown to Alexandria and Leesburg turnpike. It is done by laying logs at the bottom and covering them with poles and dirt. It is rough, but it keeps us out of the mud. Before this road was built our wheels sank to the hubs. It was awful. The worst thing I have seen in the army, is the management in the hospital department. Every morning the sick are marched up to the hospital tent, and obliged to wait, out of doors, in the open air, whatever the weather may be. It is strange that no more are sick, or that any recover. The sick are well cared for when really in the hospital; and yet I pity any man who is sick here. Another curious matter is the method of punishment adopted. It is often ridiculous. Think of a boy carrying a barrel on his shoulders with his head through a hole in the head of the barrel, and 'thief', perhaps, written on the side. I saw a boy thus at work for three days, from reveille to tattoo, stopping only to get dinner, until he fell from exhaustion. The lieutenant in charge would not let anyone pick him up. I took the boy up, and told the lieutenant to make his charges if he pleased. I have hard nothing from it since. The ball and chain is a common mode of punishment. I have seen a great many men at work on the roads and fortifications, with a six pound ball attached to one end of a six foot chain, the other being round the prisoner's leg. Other modes of punishment are, carrying a log, the gag, cutting down the pay, shaving one side of the head and knapsack drill. I am in the Quartermaster's department, and have charge of all the teams, twenty-five in number. I ride about the country more than any man in the camp. Our Capt., Jesse A. Gove, is a captain in the regulars and has been for ten years. He had command of one thousand men in Utah, and took on eight hundred and fifty of them when he came here. He is a fine officer."

But Mr. Sargent has passed away by the indiscriminate fate of war. As he filled a somewhat larger space in the public eye at home, however, than soldiers often do, it will surprise no one to find one leaf more bestowed upon him here, than there would otherwise have been. He was made an orphan at the age of nine, his father having died in 1832, and his mother in 1836. We find him an apprentice to Mr. Ezra Perkins, senior, of Essex, when ten years old, beginning work at the shoemaking trade. At the district school he was a diligent scholar. Books were among his dearest companions, and yet many avenues to knowledge seemed to open before him, as they always will where the love of it is strong. It is believed there were few lessons recited even by classes to which he did not belong, to which he had not an open ear. Few were the teacher's remarks, especially at a general or miscellaneous exercise, which he did not hear and remember. In looking over his life-long diary of little short of fifteen hundred folio pages, in two large ledger volumes, there is most conclusive evidence of the truth of the above remark. He has been known to remark that his school teacher at Essex once recommended the keeping of a journal, to his scholars, but who could have anticipated such a result as this? The keeping of this journal, it is believed, was never intermitted, and it enables us to account for his self-culture, for his close thinking and mental training generally. He would seem to have adopted Dr. Franklin's rule for the farmer: "Plough deep, while sluggards sleep, And you shall have corn to sell and to keep."

As a member of the village debating club, he distinguished himself at once. He saw with ease how error could be assailed and troth defended; and his flow of language was ready and happy. Notwithstanding the obscurity of his beginning in Essex, Mr. Sargent was not slow to find his true level among our young men. He was called to preside at the annual town meeting when but almost a youth, and shortly after, he was made both town and parish clerk, and his records had the public approval, as appears from the fact that he continued to fill both offices, till he laid them down to obey what he believed to be his country's call. Mr. Sargent represented the town in general court in 1857, was one of the special county commissioners till he surrendered his commission on going into the army. He was a justice of the peace for several years, and held his commission till he died. Various other offices also, he was called upon from time to time to fill, a fact showing, how well he stood in the estimation of the public. But the object of this appendix to the town history, compels us to confine ourselves to the soldiers as soldiers, and here we must leave him "alone in his glory."

Notes for Orrin Noble Giddings

Orrin moved with his parents to Dover, New York at the age of 16 he entered a store in Poughkeepsie, New York. In 1836 he went west, tarrying in Auburn for a few months, and while there, he married Harriet A., daughter of Ambrose and Phebe Cook, whose acquaintance he had formed in Poughkeepsie, and who proved an affectionate companion for more than forty years. They proceeded to the territory of Michigan and settled in Kalamazoo County, in an unorganized township, No. 2 south, and range No. 9 west, arriving there June 23, 1836. In company with a brother-in-law he erected a storehouse and entered into merchandizing and improvement of land. On the organization of the town it was called Charleston. In 1838 he was elected one of the first magistrates, which office he held during his residence there; also various other offices. He was elected a member of the State Legislature from Kalamazoo County in 1845 and 1846, and filled the office with credit. In 1847 he moved into Ross Township, holding the offices of Supervisor and Postmaster. In 1852 he was elected Treasurer of Kalamazoo County, and moved to the town of that name, holding the office four successive terms. He was Supervisor during the War for the Union, which was an office of great responsibility, as upon it devolved the duty of making all enlistments for that military district, as well as providing for a comfortable subsistence for the families of the soldiers while in service, which that State had authorized to be done. In 1865 the Governor appointed him Quartermaster-General, and at the expiration of his term he was reappointed, but before that term expired he resigned to attend to his private business. Since that period he has been engaged in various speculations and in farming.

The 1850 census for Ross, Kalamazoo County, Michigan shows Orrin Giddings age 36, farmer with wife Harriet age 37 and son Theron age 7. Notes for Amzi Fuller
The following from the Giddings reference: Amzi obtained a thorough knowledge of Latin, and the usual higher branches of an English education, under the instruction of Mr. Daniel Parker, at his classical school in Sharon, Connecticut. In 1814, being in his 21st year, he went to Bethany, Pennsylvania, and engaged to teach school for six months, but was obliged to leave before the close of his term by reason of a severe illness. On regaining his health, he went early in 1815, to Milford, Pennsylvania, and pursued the study of law, under the instruction of Dan. Dimmick, Esq., earning the means to pay his expenses by writing for the county officers. On completing his studies, he decided to locate in Bethany, the county seat of Wayne County, Pennsylvania, and August 25th, 1816, was by the court formally admitted to practice as an attorney-at-law. He immediately opened an office for legal practice, and thus became the first resident lawyer in Wayne County. He regularly and thoroughly read the decisions of the higher courts, and being favored with an unusually retentive memory, his mind became stored with so much of correct knowledge of the law that he soon stood at the head of the bar, as a jurist. In politics, he was a Whig while the majority of the voters in his county, and in the legislative and Congressional districts, of which his county formed a part, was overwhelmingly democratic, so that if he or his friends had desired his political promotion there was no encouragement to seek it. He, however, had no such desire, but preferred giving his whole attention to the duties of his profession. In all objects of a public nature, such as sustaining religious worship, and the cause of education, and devising and carrying out improvements for the town or vicinity, he was an active, judicious adviser, and liberal contributor, for all such matters were then supported by voluntary contributions. In 1840, an act of assembly was passed, providing for the removal of the county seat from Bethany, where he had so long resided, to Honesdale, three miles distant. As his only son, Henry M. Fuller, was then established in the practice of law, in Luzerne, one of the largest and most rapidly-improving counties in the state, he, in 1841, moved to Wilkes-Barre, and made that town his future home. He did not there engage in the active practice of the law, though he continued to act as advisory counsel for many of his former clients. While resident in Wilkes-Barre, he gained the esteem of those with whom he associated, and was honored and respected by all who made his acquaintance. He married 10 Feb 1818, Maria Mills, of Kent, Connecticut, and died in the old homestead while there on a visit, in his 54th year. She resides in [1882] Wilkes-Barre, in her 83d year. They had one son, Henry Mills Fuller, born 13 June 1820.

Children of Amzi FULLER and Maria MILLS were as follows:

Notes for Luther Cook

Notes for Jonathan Giddings Fuller

Jonathan left his home in New York about two years after his marriage and was never heard from again.

Children of Jonathan Giddings Fuller and Catherine Panburn were as follows:

10726 i. Louisa Fuller.

5856. Adaline Fuller (Rebecca Giddings, Jonathan, Joseph, Sarah Andrews, Joseph, John), born 28 Dec 1801 in Kent, Litchfield County, Connecticut; died Dec 1838. She married in Sep 1820 David Northrop, born of Sherman, Fairfield County, Connecticut; died in Middletown, Middlesex County, Connecticut.

Children of Adaline Fuller and David Northrop were as follows:

10727 i. Saline Northrop, born 1821; died 15 Jul 1843. Notes: Saline died at age 22.

5857. Thomas Fuller (Rebecca Giddings, Jonathan, Joseph, Sarah Andrews, Joseph, John), born 26 Feb 1804 in Kent, Litchfield County, Connecticut; died 16 Dec 1843 in Wayne County, Pennsylvania. He married (1) on 10 Sep 1829 Caroline Nichols, died 24 Mar 1830; (2) on 31 Oct 1831 Martha Robins, born 1802 in New York; died 17 Oct 1864 in Honesdale, Wayne County, Pennsylvania.

Notes for Thomas Fuller

Information from the Giddings reference: When young Thomas obtained a very thorough common school education, at the same time getting a practical knowledge of the manner in which the labor on a New England farm should be performed. But family was not congenial to his tastes and he had a strong desire to fit himself for some profession, and his preference was that of law. Therefore, in 1823, he arranged to go to Bethany, Pennsylvania and put himself under the instruction of his brother Amzi, who was a thorough Latin scholar, and a lawyer of high standing. He there pursued his studies until well fitted for practice, and in August 1826, was admitted by the court to the bar of Wayne County.

He devoted all his energy to his profession, studying with diligence to store his mind with knowledge, hoping in time to attain eminence as a jurist; and, while so doing, he also gave the most careful attention to such matters of business as were entrusted to him professionally.

By the pursuit of this course, he soon attained the reputation of a good lawyer, and as he had a remarkably easy and popular manner in addressing the court and jury, or public gatherings, he soon became a favorite with the people, and although in politics he was a Whig, and the majority in his Legislative district was 2,000 democratic. He was twice in succession elected to the State Legislature.

His business and popularity continued to increase as long as he lived, so that before his death he was recognized by his associates as standing at the head of the legal profession in his county; and, if his life had been spared a few years more, the probability is that he would have been selected by his constituents to fill some highly honorable position.

Children of Thomas Fuller and Martha Robins were as follows:

+ 10728 i. Mary Robins Fuller, born 14 May 1834 in New York. She married Ralph L. Briggs.

Millard RAYMOND.

Notes for Rebecca Fuller

The following from the Giddings reference: Rebecca married John Torrey of Bethany, Pennsylvania and immediately moved to Honesdale, Pennsylvania which was thereafter their home. From an obituary notice in a Honesdale paper is gathered the following: "On Sunday morning the death of this estimable lady was announced. The public were somewhat prepared for such an event by the previous announcement of her serious illness, but it created a feeling of deep and sincere sorrow throughout the circle of her many friends. Mrs. Torrey's health had been delicate for some time, and all that medical skill, gentle nursing, loving care and devoted attention could do to alleviate her sufferings and restore her health proved ineffectual to avert the shaft of death. The severity of the shock is softened and mitigated by the fact that her beautifully consistent, Christian life, extending through a long series of years, had made her ready for the exchange of worlds. Her mental and moral excellences made her alike beloved in society and in the home, but it was in the domestic circle that the graces of her character were more conspicuously exemplified. Her heart was the very fountain of charity and kindness; there was no harshness in her nature; her smile was benevolence; her voice of gentleness and peace; and her hand, obedient to the generous impulses of her heart, was ever open to relieve distress. She passed away as calmly and peacefully as a child sleeps, surrounded by all that makes age beautiful; honored, trusted, beloved, during life, for her inestimable virtues, and mourned in death as one whose office must remain vacant for evermore. She united with the Presbyterian Church of Honesdale, by letter, March 28, 1831, and was a consistent member for more than 46 years." John Torrey has always been a prominent and influential man in the community, and is now 75 [1882] years of age.

Notes for Augustine Giddings

In 1827, Augustine moved to Great Barrington, Massachusetts and settled upon a large and fertile farm in North Plain District, making agriculture his calling. He at once entered upon a career of industry and thrift. His business life was marked by independence, prudence, and energy, with rigid exactness and honesty in his dealings. He was a member of the Legislature in 1841, which numbered among its names Henry Wilson, Charles Francis Adams, and George Ashman. For forty-two years he held the office of Justice of the Peace. He at one time made a voyage to England to look up the title to property that had fallen to his mother's ancestors, the Salmons, but it was found too late to obtain possession, as it had reverted to the crown. The death of his daughter, in 1831, marked the crisis in his religious life, and he became connected with the Congregational Church. His views in theology were of the old school, and the Westminster Catechism was a standard with him in family instruction. In later years, owing to feeble health, he excluded himself from society, but during the years of his best energy he was eminently social and genial, with a ready intelligence, upon all matters of the day. He was married Sep. 6, 1826, to Olive L. Millard Raymond, daughter of Philo and Olive L. Millard, and adopted

Notes for Harvey Hart Bidwell Turner

Dorcas, a lady of pleasing disposition and exemplary Christian principle. She and Harvey resided many years on a farm in the North Plain District, Housatonic, where Mr. Turner was an energetic, enterprising farmer, and became an extensive landholder. He, several years since, moved to the village of Housatonic, is a man of much influence in town affairs and does much for the support of the Congregational Church and Society; is frequently called to hold responsible positions in the town, and is a director in the Savings Bank. He has received the votes of his party as Representative to the Legislature, but was defeated on account of his strong temperance principles. He is the eighth in lineal descent from Capt. Nathaniel Turner who came from England with Gov. Winthrop in 1630, landed at Salem, Massachusetts, lived in Lynn till 1638, when he moved to New Haven, Connecticut, with Gov. Eaton, Rev. Mr. Davenport, and others, where he was a magistrate, and Captain of Militia. He purchased the town of Stamford, Connecticut "of the Indians for the New Haven Colony about 1641. He brought with him his wife and four children, two others were born in New Haven; he sailed for England in January 1847, and was lost at sea. A descendant of Capt. Nathaniel was Capt. Jabez Turner, of New Haven, an officer in the Revolutionary War. The latter left a sword with the date 1666 stamped on it, now in possession of his grandson, Harvey H. B. Turner, who has also a powder horn on which Capt. Turner carved with his own hands his name and many curious pictures.

Notes for Didamia Fical

MRS. LOREN GIDDINGS, Didamia Fical was born in Herkimer County, N.Y., Dec. 18, 1818. Came to Michigan in 1829 and in 1837 was married to Loren Giddings. To this union were born 18 children, ten dying in infancy. Three sons, William, Thomas and John all of Onondaga, survive their mother who passed away May 30 1919, at the ripe age of 100 years, 5 months and 12 days. For the past few years she has made her home with her son John, near Winfield. On her birthday, Dec. 18, 1918, a family reunion was held at Onondaga and nearly 100 relatives were present. Mrs. Giddings was a great reader of the newspapers and was much interested in our World War and her memory of dates was wonderful. Funeral was held Monday at the Congregation Church, Rev John Claflin of Eaton Rapids officiating. Aside from the three sons she is survived by 19 grandchildren and 21 great-grandchildren. Burnham, 2d, was born in Essex, November 1, 1840. He was a ship carpenter, and the son of Ebenezer and Susan T. Burnham. He enlisted August 30, 1862, in Capt. Wheatland's Company E, afterwards Capt. Howes', Forty-eighth Massachusetts Volunteers. After encamping first at Wenham, September 19, 1862, and then at Readville, the regiment was ordered to the Mississippi River to join the command of Gen. Banks. Mr. B. states that he was not in any battle, was never wounded, nor in any hospital, nor at any time a prisoner; received bounty and wages as did all others of that regiment and company."

Orrin B. BURNHAM, born 22 Jan 1847.

Mark ANDREWS (John, Amos, John, Joseph, John), born 19 Jan 1796 in Saint George, Knox County, Maine; died about 1878 in South Norridgewock, Somerset County, Maine. Andrews Family Bible Records

I have in my possession a bible which contains handwritten Andrews family information. I would like this bible to go to a living descendant of this family. The bible seems to be intact but the pages are discolored. The title page reads: The Holy Bible containing The Old and New Testaments: Translated Out of The Original Tongues, and with the former translations diligently compared and revised Stereotype Edition (Boston: Waitt & Dow, 1830) and sold at their bookstore in Charlestown, Mass. In the upper left hand corner of the inside front cover there is a sticker that reads:

"Sold by John M. Ives, Essex Street, Salem"

Handwritten information inside the front cover reads:

Judith B, Andrews Aged 15
Jeremiah Andrews Bristol
Born November 6th 1796

Notes for James Franklin Story

Correspondence from Edward Jenkins: "You will note the Sarah Jenkins that J. Franklin Story married (second). She was sister of my great-grandfather, Rev. John Jenkins. Our family information is that Rev. John had come to Essex in 1850 because she then was married to this Story in Essex and he had recently lost his first wife in childbirth in Yarmouth, Nova Scotia. This message indicates Sarah's marriage as occurring in 1852 (later than our information had indicated), and I still don't know how Sarah came to be in Essex in the first place."

The 1850 census for Essex, Essex County, Massachusetts shows James Story age 25, shoemaker with wife Elizabeth age 22 and children: Elizabeth E. age 2 and John F. age 1/12. The 1870 census for Charlestown, Middlesex County, Massachusetts shows James F. Story age 33, porter in store with wife Sarah S. age 32 and children: George W. age 6, at school and Frank H. age 2. The 1880 census for Essex, Essex County, Massachusetts shows James F. age 54, dealer in fruit trees and wife Sarah L. age 54, keeping house, daughter Althea age 26, at home.

Notes for Sarah Louisa Jenkins

The following written by Edward Jenkins: "About 1850, John Jenkins, recently widowed, came from Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, to visit his sister, Sarah, who had married J. Franklin Story. Mr. Jenkins, who had earlier preached at some small churches in Nova Scotia (between Digby and Yarmouth) as a "circuit rider", he decided to stay in Essex and (for a short time) preached at the Century Church. However, the congregation was very small and the collections inadequate to support a full time minister. The Reverend John Jenkins (never ordained), found it necessary to return to his former normal employment as a Ship's Carpenter or Shipwright.

David Preston was a Deacon of the Century Church; and it was only natural that daughter Anna would become acquainted with Reverend John Jenkins. John Jenkins and Anna Jenkins were married in Newburyport, Mass., on October 23, 1852, and then moved into an upstairs apartment in the home of his parents, their first born being my grandfather.

She married on 26 Dec 1847 in Essex, Essex County, Massachusetts William A. STANWOOD, born 1819 in Gloucester, Essex County, Massachusetts, son of Abel STANWOOD and Louise (---).

Notes for Betsey B. Andrews

The following from Loretta G. Haack: "I have a connection with the Andrews family of Essex through my great grandfather. Here is a brief description of his background. As a child, my great grandfather was known to our family as Charles Henry Gardner, born in Salem, Massachusetts. Long after his death and that of his wife, Ella Mae Grey Gardner, my eldest sister discovered that Charles Henry Gardner had joined the 32nd Massachusetts Infantry as William F. Stannard from Gloucester, Massachusetts. Through NEHGS, I have found that my great grandfather was born in 1845 as William F. Kelley, the illegitimate son of Betsey B. Andrews and William F. Kelley. I have no further information for his father, William, but Betsey B. Andrews married William A. Stanwood (Stannard) when my great grandfather was about 4 years old. He is found on the 1860 census for Gloucester as William F. Stanwood. After the Civil War, he took the name of Charles Henry Gardner for some unknown reason. By that time, both William A. and Betsey B. Stannard had died." Betsey B. Andrews was the daughter of Jacob Andrews of Essex County. Research points to Betsey (or Mary, perhaps Mary Elizabeth) Burnham as her mother.

Notes for Anna Elizabeth Preston

Email from Edward Jenkins 8 Oct 2006:
"...Were you aware of the fact that Anna Preston Jenkins was once a Bloomer Girl? (Can find "Bloomer Girls" on Goggle). She even owned at least one outfit and had her picture taken in bloomers. Dad said they were similar to the bloomers worn by Turkish women of that time, but were made of similar material to dresses Anna wore - they were voluminous, and tied at the ankle - worn in protest against hoop skirts... Dad told me that a few years before his mother..."

3932 Edward Jenkins, Correspondence , 2005. 800 Lake Port Blvd. Apt C-310, Leesburg, FL 34748.
Notes for John Jenkins

The following written by Edward Jenkins: "About 1850, Reverend John Jenkins, recently widowed, came from Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, to visit his sister, Sarah, who had married J. Franklin Story. Mr. Jenkins, who had earlier preached at some small churches in Nova Scotia (between Digby and Yarmouth) as a "circuit rider", he decided to stay in Essex and (for a short time) preached at the Century Church. However, the congregation was very small and the collections inadequate to support a full time minister (and the Reverend John Jenkins (never ordained), found it necessary to return to his former normal employment as a Ship's Carpenter or Shipwright.

David Preston was a Deacon of the Century Church, and it was only natural that daughter Anna would become acquainted with Reverend John Jenkins. John Jenkins and Anna Jenkins were married in Newburyport, Mass., on October 23, 1852, and then moved into an upstairs apartment in the home of his parents, their first born being my grandfather, Harold Jenkins, born August 16, 1853, with a second son, Preston Jenkins, born October 13, 1856.

On land given to his daughter Anna by David Preston, John Jenkins began building a home at Grove and Milk Sts., Essex (about a half mile from the Preston house), and shortly after the Jenkins family moved into it about 1858, a third son, William Ellery Channing Jenkins, was born."

The following written by Edward Jenkins: "John Jenkins was a "preacher" by choice; in early ears served 3 churches in Yarmouth, Nova Scotia area. Came to Essex, Mass. to visit a sister after death of his first wife (Mary Cann) and his son died soon afterwards, (infant). He stayed in Essex and became minister at a church there, but finances dictated his resuming trade as a shipbuilder, and he worked in shipyards of Essex for several years. He married daughter of David Preston, Anne Preston. He was interested in horticulture and bought and sold fruit trees in area as a sideline. His death certificate erroneously shows that he was born in Yarmouth, Nova Scotia whereas other information makes it almost certain he and 3 or 4 siblings were born in New Brunswick, Canada. I think this (error) was likely from information provided by his wife (who outlived him several years); Also, cause of his death is shown as "old age" although he as only in his 70's at time and had been ill (before his death) for weeks of an unknown cause. His twin brother, Griffith, had died a few weeks earlier and letter covering that information received by Anna, who (because of his illness) didn't show letter to him, so he died without knowing of his twin's earlier death."

Signed Charles J. Torone, M.D. of 14 Martin Street, Essex.

The Andrews family bible has Emily Elizabeth's birth date of birth as 4 Aug 1833.

Email from Edward Jenkins, 27 May 2004:

"...I was aware of your relationship in connection with Emily Burnham. Among notes my father left was a comment that Emily was quite a pretty woman, even in her later years. I assume he may have actually met her to make such an observation (he was born in 1887 - died 1987), and, of course, his mother Esther Butler Burnham (my grandmother) must have known Emily and members of the family well (she lived with my parents in E. Braintree, Mass. for the last 15 or so years of her life, being 96 at time of her death).

Children of Henry ANDREWS and Emily Elizabeth BURNHAM were as follows:

Notes for Andrew Burnham

Andrew was a ship carpenter by trade and proved so practical and energetic in his work that he became foreman in the extensive shipyards of Donald McKay of East Boston. He supervised the construction of many of the finest crafts on the high seas in the palmist days of the American Merchant Marine. He was without a doubt one the most thorough and practical ship builders in his time and his judgment of quality of materials and construction was not surpassed by any other man. On 9 May 1854, during the administration of President Pierce, he was appointed Inspector of Hulls, a federal office, and performed the duties of that position for the next forty years. In 1852-53 he was a member of the Common Council of Boston, and after his removal from the city to the suburban town of North Chelsea (Revere) he took even greater interest in the affairs of municipal government. For five years he was chairman of the board of selectmen, several years as a member of the school committee, one of the founders of the Revere Library and for several years a member of its board of trustees.

The following is from "The Old Cellars of Essex" by Harold Jenkins: "Mr. Seth Burnham raised a large family; 3 boys still living are David and Obed plus Andrew Burnham of Chelsea, who is the government inspector of steamboat hulls, and whose name can be seen on the certificate of any steam vessel."

Children of Andrew BURNHAM and Abby C. PHILLIPS were as follows:
11896  i  Edward W. BURNHAM, born 17 Jun 1845 in Essex County, Massachusetts; died 6 Sep 1845.

Children of Andrew BURNHAM and Anna B. DUNCAN were as follows:

Notes for Reuben Andrews

The following from "History of the Town of Essex, Massachusetts" reference: "Reuben Andrews, aged 25 years, by trade a shoemaker; was the son of Obed and Ruth Andrews, and was born in Essex. He enlisted November 25, 1861, in Company H, Capt. Devereaux, Nineteenth Regiment. Massachusetts Volunteers. The regiment, as before stated, was ordered to join McClellan's army. He was in the battles on the Peninsula and at Yorktown, and died at Harper's Ferry, October 27, 1862, of typhoid fever. He left a widow and one child. For further allusions to Mr. Andrews, see the sketch of John A. Butman." The following is from that sketch: "This sketch of John A. Butman may also be considered as applying to the following named soldiers, who enlisted at the same time, except wherein it is strictly personal, viz: William A. Andrews, Charles E. Andrews, Ruben Andrews, Ancill K; Butman, Charles F. Morse, Thomas A. Morse, John B. Burnham and William Howe Burnham. He enlisted at Essex, November 27, 1861, and was mustered and sworn in, December 10th, following. The above named soldiers left Salem on the same day, December 10th for Muddy Bank, say thirty-five miles above Washington city, and remained there until the 11th of March, 1862. On that day, they were ordered to strike their tents and move down the Potomac some sixteen miles to Edward's Ferry; halted there for refreshments the same afternoon, and immediately went on board a canal boat and proceeded up the river till midnight. On the next morning we were towed to Harper's Ferry. Leaving the boat at that place we crossed the river on a pontoon bridge, and marched in a southerly direction about two miles into Virginia, and thence on to Winchester. At Berryville, we found the road lined with Union soldiers, shouting victory; being now returning from the battle of Winchester. We learned that all the dwellings between us and Winchester, were filled with the dead and dying. We were now ordered into line and marched by the very field where John Brown was banged. We were soon after halted and remained two nights in "a grove near Gen. Banks' headquarters, and thence proceeded to Bolivar, a small town where most of the houses had been evacuated. Our regiment was divided into squads, large or small, according to the size of the house we were to empty.

The roads were very muddy and the weather very rainy. Some twenty men were detailed to procure a supply of straw for the men to sleep upon. In about one week more we were ordered to the Soldier's Retreat at Washington."

Notes for Charles Edwin Andrews

The following from "History of the Town of Essex, Massachusetts" reference: "Charles Edwin Andrews, aged 26 years, shoemaker; was the son of Ira and Martha Andrews, and was born in Essex. He enlisted in Company H, Capt. Devereaux, Nineteenth Regiment. They were, as before stated, Ordered to join the Army of the Potomac. Mr. Andrews was in the battle at Yorktown, and was killed by a ball through his head, in the seven days' fight on the Peninsula, at White Oaks. This battle was on the last day of May and first day of June, 1862, and he sleeps with multitudes or others on the banks of the Chichahominy River. It is said or him, that from "the time or his enlistment, he had a premonition or the final event, and while putting on the military dress at Salem, made some remark to a comrade strongly indicative of the sad result. Reference may also be had to the sketch of J. C. Butman, page 424. [The following is that sketch]: "This sketch of John A. Butman may also be considered as applying to the following named soldiers, who enlisted at the same time, except wherein it is strictly personal, viz : William A. Andrews, Charles E. Andrews, Ruben Andrews, Ancill K; Butman, Charles F, Morse, Thomas A. Morse, John B. Burnham and William Howe Burnham. . . enlisted at Essex, November 27, 1861, and was mustered and sworn" in, December 10th, following. The above named soldiers left Salem on the same day, December 10th for Muddy Bank, say thirty-five miles above Washington city, and remained there until the 11th of March, 1862. On that day, they were ordered to strike their tents and move down the Potomac some sixteen miles to Edward's Ferry; halted there for refreshments the same afternoon, and immediately went on board a canal boat and proceeded up the river till midnight. "On the next morning we were towed to Harper's Ferry. Leaving the boat at that place we crossed the river on a pontoon bridge, and marched in a southerly direction about two miles into Virginia, and thence on to Winchester. At Berryville, we found the road lined with Union soldiers, shouting victory; being now returning from the battle of Winchester. We learned that all the dwellings between us and Winchester, were filled with the dead and dying. We were now ordered into line and marched by the very field where John Brown was hanged. We were soon after halted and remained two nights in "a grove near Gen. Banks' headquarters, and thence proceeded to Bolivar, a small town where most of the houses had been evacuated. Our regiment was divided into squads, large or small, according to the size of the house we were to empty. The roads were very muddy and the weather very rainy. Some twenty men were detailed to procure a supply of straw for the men to sleep upon. In about one week more we were ordered to the Soldier's Retreat at Washington."

The 1860 census for Essex, Essex County, Massachusetts shows Ansil Butman age 39 with wife Alsa [as written] age 38 and children; including Charles H. Butman age 1; also Jessie Amelia Andrews age 5/12 [born Jan 1860 and died Dec 1860] the daughter of Charles E. Andrews and Amelia Ann Burnham [next door neighbors].
